Lecture & Workshop – June 24 & 25, 2019

Lecture (Monday, June 24): Adventures in String Quilting

This is a lecture/discussion/trunk show. String quilting can make use of leftovers, stash, unwanted UFOs, and of course, new fabrics. I use the term "string" to distinguish the irregular shapes welcomed in string piecing from the term "strip" which refers to precisely cut fabric - which can be obtained as precuts. I will discuss string quilting, particularly the many possibilities for creating design using simple arrangement of strings or highlighting certain parts of blocks. I've also explored many foundation types for string quilting, and these will be discussed. Participants will leave the lecture with a new or renewed appreciation for the tradition of string piecing/quilting. My book, String Quilt Style, will be available for purchase.

Full Day Workshop (Tuesday, June 25): String Churn Dash

Some background fabric and some strings of fabric sew up quickly into Churn Dash (also known as Monkey Wrench) blocks. No worries about points. Using strings of fabric leads to really interesting blocks. Yours will be unlike any others. In class you will learn how to make Churn Dash blocks. Making two or three will give you a nice size table runner. (confident beginner level)
